PAUPER IMMIGRATION.

The Results of the Investigations of American Consuls in Ireland.

As the results of inquiries made at the State Department it has been learned that the subject of Governor Butler's recent letter to Secretary Folger—"pauper immigration from Ireland"—has for some months been under consideration in that Department. A number of reports relating thereto have been received, and among the most interesting is one from Consul General Merritt, of London, giving the results of an investigation made at his request in March last by the United States Consuls in Ireland. The Consuls believe the distress prevailing at present is not exceptional in its character, and that the published accounts, to the contrary notwithstanding, are exaggerated. In the poorer agricultural districts the situation of the peasantry is miserable, and abject poverty is the rule, but, sad as it is, it has been the same for years, and has become the normal condition of life. The prospects of an amelioration of the present condition in the immediate future are most discouraging. It is altogether unlikely that the Government will shortly commence public works to give employment to the people, as the policy settled upon for relief is either by the workhouse or by emigration. With great unanimity the Consuls agree that the present condition of the Irish people must act as a powerful stimulus to emigration, and many interesting facts are given in their reports to illustrate this branch of investigation. As to the question whether or not the Government guardians of the poor, as asserted, are engaged in sending paupers to the United States, some diversity of opinion exists, which may be accounted for by the difference of the localities from which the Consuls write. Consul Burrows, of Dublin, says that no such practice is in operation in his district. Consul Wood, of Belfast, writes: "I know of no organized effort for any large exportation of sufferers and paupers to the United States. No doubt many will find their way there by the aid of friends, and often in a measure by charitable funds. It is believed that most of such emigrants are without means, and, what is worse, without skill in trades or occupations, and with so little money as to afford no promise of any respectable support on their arrival in America." Consul Livermore, of Londonderry, understands that Government agents, with no great success, however, endeavored to induce the poor and lazy to emigrate. In some localities the Guardians of the Poor are desirous that those should emigrate who are likely to remain in a state of chronic poverty at home, and thus save the rate for their possible support. General Merritt refers to the subject of American aid to Ireland as follows: "As to relieving Irish distress by contributions of money from the United States, which have always been so liberal, the charges have been so frequent in the past that much of this money has been used for other purposes, that they suggest in the future the utmost care be taken in choosing the channels through which charity is to be administered. There is enough dire poverty and need in the western and southern Coast regions to excite sympathy and insure the helping hand of those charitably disposed everywhere."

New York is the greatest State in the Union and its growth is almost phenomenal. In 1870 it had 4,382,759 inhabitants and ten years later it contained 5,082,871 people. The growth of the cities is also very rapid. Twenty-five of them contained 2,519,935 inhabitants in 1880. But agriculturally New York is very great, ranking second only to Illinois in the value of its farm products, $178,025,695. As a fruit-growing State it has no equal, as it produced $8,409,794 in 1880, or one-sixth of the entire crop of the Union. It is much the greatest manufacturing State, its $1,680,606,569 of manufactured products having been more than one-fifth of the manufactured products of the entire country in 1880. The assessed valuation of New York in that year was $2,651,940,006 or equal to that of the six New England States together. New York is properly called the Empire State, and its people will be impatient to find in the census of 1885 evidence that it is likely to maintain its position in spite of the swift growth of newer States. It costs about $6,500,000 a year to run the State government.

The New York Tribune excitedly declares that there can no longer be any doubt of a genuine Tilden revival. The Tribune should not be frightened. There will be few if any conversions.

General Grant recently said to a Cleveland reporter: "I feel ten years younger than I did ten years ago."

CONKLING'S SPEECH.

It is Thought to Outline a New Policy of the Republican Party.

NEW YORK, May 8th.—The utterances of ex-Senator Conkling at Saturday night's club reception with reference to our relations with Mexico are attracting a good deal of attention here. His aspiration is that the people of the two countries would appreciate the force of General Grant's assertions that the interests of the United States and of Mexico should be made identical, commercially, socially and politically, and that the ex-President would be the recognized leader of a movement to help the Republic of Mexico in the development of her resources, and bring about the natural commercial union of the two countries. It is believed Conkling's assertions have a significance that does not altogether appear on the surface. A leading Democratic statesman said: "It looks to me like the shrewd outlining of a new and statesmanly policy for the Republican party, one that is broad enough to appeal to national pride, and, at the same time, to lift the party out of the slough of small politics in which it has been wallowing ever since Robertson was made Collector of this port. The Mexican problem is one that properly belongs to the Democracy, in deference to its historical antecedents, but I am afraid these Republicans have got the start of us and are going to steal our thunder."

ALMOST A FAIRY TALE.

The Wonderful Success of a Former Protege of the Cincinnati Children's Home.

[Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.]

On a bright Spring morning, in the year 1867, a bootblack was stopped on one of the streets of Cincinnati by a ragged, tattered, dirty boy, who coolly asked to borrow his box and brush, and to allow him to use it while the other was selling papers. He gave as a reason for this remarkable request that he was hungry and wanted to earn enough to buy a breakfast. The street arab was quite taken with the stranger, bought him something to eat, and finally advised him to go to the Children's Home, be admitted under a fictitious name, so that if he "didn't like it he might skip out," and to give the place a trial. The lad did so, except that he gave his real name, and told the truth about himself. His mother was dead, and his father had deserted him.

After spending a few months at the Home he was bound to a farmer. But the farmer's boys misused him, and he ran away and returned to the institution. Again he was sent to live in the country, this time with another farmer, and once more he fled to the city without asking permission. He was determined not to become a farmer and would not live in the country. At last he was placed with a stone-cutter, meanwhile living at the Home, and he learned the trade. When he was turned out a proficient workman the Home authorities sent him for a couple of terms to a business college and then the boy quit the institution to begin life for himself.

At that time, in 1877, the Cincinnati Southern Railroad was in process of construction, and the boy, now grown to be a man, went down to live in Kentucky or Tennessee to work as a stone-cutter. He received $4 per day, but he had scarcely been employed a week when he was made foreman at a salary of $30 per week. He gave such satisfaction in this position that before long he was given the place of superintendent of a section, receiving $200 per month and his expenses. The young man did not have a single extravagance, and he saved almost every cent he earned. Finally, he became a sub-contractor on the road, and he managed his affairs with such judgment that when finally the Southern was completed he had a credit of $23,000 to his account at the bank.

He then came to Cincinnati for a short time, doing business as a stone contractor. His next move was to the West, where he built several portions of the Union Pacific and Denver and Rio Grande Railroads, finishing his work in this direction by erecting two hotels in Denver—that is, building them for other parties. Finally he crossed the line into Texas and purchased a herd of [illegible] which he had purchased in northwestern Colorado. He went into cattle-raising on an extensive scale, and with the most wonderful success. At present he annually disposes of a large number of cattle in Chicago for $38 or $40 per head, his expense in raising and transporting each animal being $8 25. His cattle at the ranch now number 1,600, he has a drove of 400 horses, and is said to be worth $80,000. Before he went West he married a lovely girl in Georgetown, Ky., and his family, consisting of two children, live at Colorado Springs, as the ranch is too near the Indians for peace and comfort.

This phenomenally successful protege of the Home who is now just twenty-eight years, of age, was in the city a few days ago and paid a visit to the old institution, the memory of which he cherishes in his heart, with the greatest affection. He attributes all his fortune to the teachings he received within its walls, and promises to contribute largely to its funds, although he has not yet done so. The story of his life reads almost like a Persian fairy tale, which fairly glitters with jewels and gold, but it has the advantage of being true. Naturally the Trustees of the Home follow the footsteps of their boy with the greatest interest, and take all the credit for his unexampled prosperity to themselves, although it is more than probable that he was one of nature's happy children, born not only with luck, but with the necessary pluck and determination to make the best of it.

The season for "seal" fishing having terminated, fishing for Spring bonnets is now in order.

FUN.

One must get up early to beat a carpet.

The office-seeker's flower—Forget-me-not.

Some people like to see themselves in print; ladies prefer silk.

Peter Cooper was a self-made man, and he lasted a long time.

Sitting Bull has joined the Catholic Church. He is now a papal bull.

What's in a name? Well, if it's a Russian name we should answer, the alphabet.

Time, with a scythe, is pictured as bald-headed, so that it cannot be taken by the forelock.

"Pap, did Washington never tell a lie?" "No, son; he didn't." "Then I guess he never went to school any."

Hens may be a little backward on eggs; but they never fail to come to the scratch where flower beds are concerned.

"Let every man add a good name to his other capital," quoted the forger when he fixed up a ten-thousand-dollar check.

An inquirer asks us what "bob veal" is. It has the same relation to good meat that a "dude" does to the rest of mankind.

A fashion item says oval necks are more fashionable than Pompadour squares. After all, the good old-fashioned round neck is about as satisfactory as any.

A German at a hotel-table had some Limburger cheese sent to him. A little boy sat beside him turned to his mother and exclaimed: "Mamma, how I wish I was deaf and dumb in my nose."

"Cleanliness is next to godliness," but judging from advertisements, it appears to be a difficult matter to sell a pound of soap nowadays, unless a prize is offered as an inducement to purchase.

Everything is sweet to the sweet-singing poet. A Western warbler has been attracted by freckles on the face of a pretty girl. He calls them "brown-eyed daises slumbering in a field of cream."

A girl just returned from a Boston high school said, upon seeing a fire engine at work: "Who would evah have dweamed such a vewy diminutive-looking apawatus would hold so much watah."

"Is it a sin," asks a fashionable lady of her spiritual director, "for me to feel pleasure when a gentleman says I am handsome?" "It is, my daughter," he replies, gravely; "we should never delight in falsehood!"

A Western editor observes that whenever you see a man coming out of a country drug-store, wiping his mouth with the back of his hand, you may known that the town is suffering under a combined attack of malaria and the license law.

Many Philadelphia business men now use type-writers; and not long ago a wholesale house sent a letter of this kind to a small dealer in the far West. The Western man returned it with the indignant comment, "I just want you to understand that I ain't no schoolboy. I can read writin' as good as any one."

A five-year-old boy in Shelbyville, Ind., has caused a sensation in that section, having suddenly developed into a wonderful medium, exhibiting great power, such as raising tables occupied by two or more persons, and lifting weights as heavy as himself. But when his mother wants him to bring in a scuttle of coal it almost kills him.

Horatio Seymour, of New York, will be 73 years old May 31. Of his four sisters the youngest is the wife of Roscoe Conkling.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children [illegible] the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. TOWN AND COUNTY.

BREVITIES.

Cloudy and rainy yesterday.

Uncle Joe DeBell is watchmaking at Truckee.

An insane man was brought in from Austin last night.

W. R. Chamberlain returned last night from Salt Lake.

Tom Hymers, Townsend, Nasby and J. P. Cannon, went up to Peavine yesterday.

Supt. Yerington and Senator Taylor came up from the Bay yesterday morning.

There was a large crowd at Mrs. Alt's dancing school Wednesday night, and all present enjoyed themselves.

George B. Hill, late of the Carson Index, has gone to San Francisco to settle, provided he finds things to his liking.

The cashier and book-keeper of the Wood River Times is a woman—a graduate of Bishop Whitaker's School for Girls at Reno.

Under the new time card both C. P. trains will arrive here in the morning at about 6:30. The new card will go into effect in a few days.

In Italy John W. Mackay has all sorts of titles. He is called Baron, Count, Senator, Governor, and sometimes Bonanza King Mackay.

Bob Henderson, an old-time Comstocker, passed through Reno last evening en route for San Francisco, where he expects to locate permanently.

Joe Harlow, S. W. Chubbuck, Dave Thorburn, Charley Sharp, P. J. Dunne and Wm. Sutherland, A. O. U. W. delegates, returned from Eureka last night.

The annual meeting of the Crown Prince Mining Co. will be held June 4th Official notice of the Secretary will be found in our advertising columns.

"Mum" pool is now a big attraction at Chase & Thyes.' The rules forbid the players from talking or chalking their cues after the game has commenced.

Stamps to be Redeemed.

By a circular from the Treasury Department, issued April 19, 1883, it is settled that unused bank check stamps, proprietary stamps, including stamps on medicinal preparations, perfumery, matches, etc., will be redeemed in accordance with Section 3,426 of United States Revised Statutes, as amended March 1, 1879. This is a question which is of considerable interest to a large class of persons, and they have been afraid that they would be forced to lose all the money invested in unused stamps. As above stated, provision has been made for the redemption of all such stamps.

The Mechanics' Fair.

The Trustees of the Mechanics' Fair, having decided to hold a Fair this year, have organized a Board of Managers of the Eighteenth Industrial Exhibition, to open on September 11th and close on October 13th. It was decided to give premiums, a list of which will be issued as soon as possible and sent with circulars to Pacific coast manufacturers and to all foreign exhibitors, and otherwise be widely distributed. In consequence of the Triennial Conclave occupying the Pavilion during August, the Fair will open one month later than usual.

Of Interest to Smokers.

E. Meyer has received and is now opening at his store the finest stock of tobaccos, cigars, and smokers' articles ever brought to Reno. In the latter line it would be difficult to find a more tasteful or handsome assortment anywhere. The meerschaum goods are well worth the attention of admirers of art, whether smokers or not, and the consumers in such articles are greatly interested in them. All who admire the beautiful should call and look at them.

Rough on Reno.

The San Francisco Post is responsible for this: A Reno vagrant confessed to being a plumber by trade. The Judge gave him six months, and told him that were it not for his having pleaded guilty, thus saving the county some expense, he would have turned him over to the tender mercies of the tar and feather brigade.

Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is everywhere acknowledged to be the standard remedy for female complaints and weaknesses. It is sold by druggists.

You can buy a first-class sewing machine twenty-five per cent. cheaper at Osburn & Shoemaker's than elsewhere in the State.

SENATOR FAIR'S FEELINGS.

A Square Manly Talk from Senator Fair Regarding His Family Troubles.

Senator Fair, in a communication Wednesday afternoon with an Associated Press representative, regretted bitterly and keenly the notoriety given a matter so exclusively concerning himself and wife. He said: "I am the man, and am willing to bear all the odium which the public, in its ignorance of the facts, may choose to cast upon me, but my regret is for my wife, whose name should not be associated with and incorporated in dispatches transmitted all over the country. Now, as always, my desire is to do that which will contribute to the happiness of my wife and children. If I have in anyway failed in goodness it has not been prompted by a desire to do them any wrong. Now, as ever heretofore, I want to do that which will best contribute to the happiness of my family. If my wife thinks a separation will contribute to her further happiness, then her mind and mine are alike. I have done nothing to merit the obloquy cast upon me. Those who best know me will tell you what my desires are in this matter. God has blessed me with wealth, and I have never used it for any mean or unmanly purpose. My heart and hand have always been open to those in distress, and will continue to be to those who seek or require my help. I repeat, that in this matter with my wife, which has been made so public, I have nothing to say further than that it pains me to see her name and mine associated with such dastardly and vindictive dispatches as have gone forth to the world. I am the man, she is the woman, and in those relations I will shield her name at every point in my power."

NEVADA'S RIVER.

A Recent Improvement to Secure a Safe Passage of the Rapids.

A few weeks since, says the Los Angeles Herald, as announced in the Herald, Captain J. A. Mellon, one of the pioneers of the Colorado River Steamship Line, left for the upper River per steamship Mohave, to El Dorado canyon, in Lincoln county, Nevada, with instructions from the company to proceed from there with a select crew up the river to Devil's Gate and through Black canyon, past Callville, the present limit of navigation, to the mouth of the Virgin river, 100 miles above Callville, and prepare the extreme limit of navigation in the following manner: To plant in the solid rock in the two canyons six ring bolts, four feet long, the rings of which to be of a diameter of eight inches, and the ring bolts to be of two-inch iron. This apparatus is for the purpose of securing lines from the steamers while passing through the dangerous rapids in the two canyons, and as during high water the steamers are run clear up to the mouth of the Virgin river, with a possibility of disaster, the precaution is a wise one. The Salt Works Mining Company of Virgin river ships enormous quantities of rock salt from the capacious mines on that stream by the steamers, in the season, to the company's mill at El Dorado, from whence it is shipped all through Arizona, Sonora and New Mexico as a manufactured product ready for the trade. In addition to the business interest in this iconoclastic move, it is stated that the scenery above Fort Mohave, and from there to Virgin river, is of the grandest description, and scarcely to be excelled in picturesqueness on the American continent, in some places the river being scarcely wide enough to allow the steamer to pass between the massive bluffs of basaltic rock. At other points this stream widens out into a lake, while on either side stand the grand, gloomy, barren mountains, as if forbidding the footsteps of man to penetrate the secret precincts beyond. All who can, should take a trip up this wonderful river at high water, and he will soon learn what a small figure he cuts in comparison with the grand works of the Almighty.

Mine Sold.

Conductor Case tells the Silver State of the sale of the Onondaga mine in Safford District to a San Francisco company. The price paid is said to be $112,000. Safford, the discoverer of the mine, owns one-third of it, and is pretty well rewarded for his energy.

Flaming Oil.

The Standard Oil Works in Jersey City were struck by lightning yesterday morning and destroyed. Six lives were lost and over $1,500,000 of property burned.

The Austin Reveille is in favor of the new reform proposed by the JOURNAL's Carson correspondent. It says:

It has been customary to dress the children at the State Orphan Home in a uniform of gray trimmed in blue. This requirement is to be abolished, because it is an unnecessary proclamation that the wearer is an orphan, dependent upon the bounty of the State. It is perfectly proper to place the brand on a convict, because his feelings are not so entitled to respect and the striped clothes serve as a means of securing him if he escapes, but no such motives exist in the case of the unfortunate waif, who is compelled by circumstances over which it had no control to be a State ward. The distinctive garb should be done away with at once.

No one ever lost his honor except he who had it not.—Publius Syens.

A Rich Railroad Corporation.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company is one of the richest corporations in the world. It started out with a grant of 756 miles of road built and in operation; another grant of 25,000,000 acres of land, said to be worth on the average $5 per acre, and a Government guarantee of the clear gift of $25,000,000, to be paid by installments, so much upon the completion of each section of twenty miles. Its charter exempts the road equipment and capital stock from taxes for ever, and it has free right of way, with all the materials for construction and equipment free from duty. The whole mileage to be built by the company is less than 2,400 miles. The eastern half of it will not cost more than $15,000 a mile, or $18,000,000. The western half, including passage through two ranges of mountains, may cost an average of $35,000 a mile, or $42,000,000; a total probable cost of $60,000,000, of which the Government pays $25,000,000, leaving for the company but $35,000,000, which 7,000,000 acres of their land grant from Winnipeg westward will pay. They will then have left their entire capital stock and 18,000,000 acres of land for the construction of connections and branches and equipment, and for the creation of connecting lines of steamships from Montreal to Europe at the East, and from Port Moody with Australia, China and San Francisco at the West. A company so rich in funds and exempt from all taxes for ever, and so large a surplus, ought to become a regulator of all the other transcontinental railways, and force them into reasonable and fair treatment of the public.

About this time the head of the family looks sadly upon the pile of coal ashes in his back yard, and then peeps over into his neighbor's lot to find a good place to deposit them on the first dark night.

Professor Huxley says that the presence of a rat in the house indicates a connection with a sewer. This will surprise many persons who don't live within ten miles of a sewer and are troubled with rats.

Advertising Medium.

The advertising columns of the JOURNAL afford an excellent opportunity to our readers to study out where purchases of all kinds can be made on the most advantageous terms. All classes of goods can there be found advertised from a suit of clothes or nice silk dress to the daintiest ornament in the jewelry line. The JOURNAL reaches nearly every family as well as business house in the county, and, therefore, advertisers seek its columns that the public may know what they have for sale.

No Use for Them.

Concerning Certain Relics of the Past—Dogs That Have Had Their Day.

George Stephenson's "Rocket," and the magnificent locomotives of to-day, are built upon the same general principle, yet the machine with which the great engineer astonished his age, is interesting now only as an illustration of the beginning of the invention. There were plasters with holes in them long before BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER surprised both the public and the physicians; and the triumph of the Capcine is founded upon the partial successes, or the utter failure of its predecessors. Everything of value in the old porous plaster is retained in the Capcine; but at it is point all commonplace ends and contrast begins. For example:

The old plasters were slow in their action; the Capcine was quick and sure.

The old plasters lacked the power to do more than to impart slight, temporary relief in cases easy of treatment; the Capcine penetrates the system and permanently cures the troubles for which it is recommended.

The old plasters depended for any good results they might attain, upon an accident of their makers and the naked faith of their wearers, the Benson's reaches its ends by means of the scientific combination of the rare medicinal ingredients which it contains.

In brief, the old plasters, like Stephenson's discarded engine, are switched off the track while the Benson's goes on its way winning golden opinions from all sorts of people.

Yet in this very fact lies the leading danger to the people who buy and use this reliable and scientific remedy. "Hypocrisy is the tribute vice pays to virtue." Imitation is the concession failure makes to success. Benson's Plasters are parodied in name and style.

Beware of swindles. The genuine have the word CAPCINE cut in the center Price 25 cents. Seabury & Johnson, Chemists, New York.

Will be mailed FREE to all applicants, and to customers of last year without ordering it. It contains about 175 pages, 600 illustrations, prices, accurate descriptions and valuable directions for planting 1500 varieties of Vegetable and Flower Seeds, Plants, Fruit Trees, etc. Invaluable to all, especially to Market Gardeners. Send for it!
